It is with much pleasure that I recommend XXXX for enrollment at the University of XXXX for a Master's program in Neuroscience. I have served as XXXX instructor for Organic chemistry for two quarters in summer 2018 and winter 2019. I took her through CHEM 109A and CHEM 109B, during which I observed her enormous growth and development. XXXX was very eager to learn new things and worked extra-long hours. Owing to her determination, she emerged the top student in CHEM 109A and among the 10% top students my CHEM 109B class.

Teaching XXXX was the best experience; with her inquisitive nature, she always involved me with regular questions whenever she didn't understand to get a better insight into entailed concepts other than just the material cursory. Her ability to learn usually went beyond the basic class requirements. She was great at seeing the links between topics and using those links to create a clear understanding that she can turn into well-thought-out explanations and questions.

Additionally, XXXX possesses exceptional communication skills, which were demonstrated when they presented research in Addiction Neurobiology and Biosensor Development in which she was tasked as a research assistant. She also undertook her assignments seriously and was passionate about the results. Furthermore, she is ambitious and always knows what exactly she wants, and has the patience to see that through. Besides, XXXX is intuitive, committed, and focused on developing a career in Science; which demonstrated in her degree in B.S.

Biopsychology. I genuinely believe she will offer your class with her unique optimism, strength, passion, and imagination.

I wholeheartedly recommend XXXX for the Masters' program in Neuroscience. I have no doubts that she will uphold your institution's values and become a leading member of your institution and future. If you have any questions about her character, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours Sincerely,
